

5th Annual Solomon Carter Fuller Memory Screening Day

2015 marks the 5th anniversary of the Solomon Carter Fuller Memory Screening Day. You are invited to join the Alzheimer's & Dementia Alliance of Wisconsin and the Wisconsin Alzheimer's Disease Research Center for a two-day event featuring Dr. Goldie Byrd and free memory screenings.

Alzheimer's is under-reported in the African American community and is more prevalent in African-Americans than among other races. Come learn more about the disease, available resources, and what you can do if you are concerned about yourself or a loved one.

Dr. Goldie Byrd, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at North Carolina A&T State University, is a nationally recognized researcher in Alzheimer's disease in African Americans and a recipient of the Presidential Award for Excellence in Science, Mathematics and Engineering Mentoring.

Dr. Byrd will speak on Friday, February 27 with a reception to follow.
