2011 Year-end Review

The 100 Black Men of Madison, Inc., is an affiliate of 100 Black Men of America, Inc.

Message from the President

100 Black Men of Madison, Inc. (100 BMM) has always been defined in terms of results that provide real benefits to our community and enhancements to educational and economic opportunities for all African Americans, particularly our children. By that definition, this past year has been very successful.

Much has been achieved, thanks to the commitment of truly excellent volunteers, organizational leaders focused on providing effective advocacy and value, and members who are willing to get directly engaged in programs and services for the common good. I invite you to review this annual report to reaffirm the value of your 100 BMM membership.

Our growth and participation levels demonstrate that we are doing what our community members want. The success of our programs not only adds to the overall strength of the organization, but also enhances the strength of core initiatives like academic achievement, mentoring, health and wellness, and social responsibility.

A powerful dynamic is created when nonprofit organizations and community partners band together to fight for common interests. 100 BMM's "grassroots" strength and determined advocacy was brought to bear during General Membership Breakfasts early in 2011 with the engagement of Madison Mayoral and Dane County Executive candidates. The African American Achievement Team and the "Remember to Believe" Summit allowed us to embrace our male youth and provide guidance for their productive futures. In partnership with the Madison Metropolitan School District, we addressed the achievement gap through the Leopold and Orchard Ridge Elementary School Reading Projects, helped champion repeat winners from Cherokee Middle School at the African American History Challenge Bowl, and celebrated outstanding educators and mentors in the Greater Madison Area.

In 2011, we devoted incredible resources and man hours to fundraising initiatives through the Annual Golf Outing and Backpacks for Success program. Coupled with the generous support of area sponsors, we ensured the financial stability of our programs as well as provided much-needed support to area disadvantaged families, and our expanded efforts placed the interests of our community squarely at the forefront during the 1st Annual Christmas Community Celebration in Support of Toys for Tots through collection of 1,243 toys for distribution to needy area youth.

As we enter into a new year, we have many things to be thankful for: our sound governance structure, giving equal strength to all members; an active and dedicated volunteer base willing to engage in advocacy; organization leaders who are dedicated to serving and enhancing the welfare of our community; and 100 BMM's outstanding members, people who carefully consider what effect their actions will have on everyone.

100 Black Men of Madison, Inc. endeavors to truly exemplify our national motto, "What They See Is What They Will Be," and our chapter maxim, "We Are What We Do."

God Bless,

Floyd Rose, Ph.D., President

The Organization

The overall concept of the 100 Black Men organization was born in New York City in 1963, when a diverse group of concerned and successful African-American men began to meet to explore ways of improving conditions in their communities. They envisioned an organization that would implement programs designed to improve the quality of life for African Americans and other minorities.

These members were successful black men from various walks of life who decided to pool their skills and experiences to ensure the future of their communities by aiming an intense number of resources toward youth development. They eventually adopted the name 100 Black Men, Inc. Among the founders were David Dinkins, Livingston Wingate, Andrew Hatcher, and Jackie Robinson.

In the 1970s, the concept of developing individual, independent chapters in other cities took hold, and in 1976, the 100 Black Men of New Jersey was formed by Dr. William Hayling and other colleagues. A movement had been born. Men across the country began to form 100 Black Men organizations in cities like Los Angeles, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, San Francisco/Oakland Bay area, Nassau/Suffolk, and Sacramento.

In 1986, the nine successful chapters met and voted to create 100 Black Men of America, Inc. as a national confederation. Currently, there are more than 100 chapters and more than 10,000 members. The Board of Directors consists of the presidents of the local chapters. For the past four decades, chapters across the nation have touched the lives of over 60,000 young people.

Summary of 2011 Events of the 100 Black Men of Madison, Inc.

African American Achievement Team (AAAT) Class

La Follette High School – Madison, Wisconsin

Being a young Black man in the 21st century is difficult. Irrespective of financial means or support from home, Black youth often find themselves in negative and indifferent environments. Focusing on that fact, the African American Achievement Team (AAAT) takes a clear look at the challenges confronting our young Black men and endeavors to provide context and insight to the successful negotiations of those abutments. The goal for each youth who participates in the AAAT program is to improve academic skills, promote positive relationships among peers and adults, encourage a positive attitude toward learning and high achievement, improve GPA each semester and graduate with a 2.5 GPA or higher.

Conducted at La Follette High School in Madison, Wisconsin, the AAAT is actualized in twelve classes taught by successful and committed Black men who share their history and perspective on a variety of topics designed to prepare African-American male youth with the mindset and the tools to be successful. Topics covered include: What it means to be a Black male; Challenges and choices facing the young Black male, making good choices/consequences of poor choices; Drugs and alcohol: Prevention and intervention; STD and AIDS: Health risks and unsafe behaviors; Dress and style, hip-hop culture; Respect for others (e.g., women, classmates, authority figures); Black history: As a source of strength and inspiration; Values of the Black community; Diversity discussions; Career planning: Success at this level and the next; Role of athletics; Are you "acting white" if you get good grades?; and Skills needed to succeed in life.

The African American Achievement Team was started in 2007 by Eric Summers and John Milton. The La Follette liaisons are Michele Olson and Terry Meissen.

Mingling, Mentoring and Mama's Treats

14 September 2011

UW-Madison Grainger Hall – Madison, Wisconsin

Members of the African-American professional community, local high school students, and university students and faculty of the University of Wisconsin attended Mingling, Mentoring and Mama's Treats on 14 September.

This event offered an opportunity for social interaction and information sharing among a group of high school, college and older African-American men with similar career interests. With the theme of "Intergenerational Mentoring," the goal of the activity was to initiate cross-generational mentoring relationships.

“Remember to Believe” Summit for African American Males

18 November 2011

American Family Insurance Corporate Headquarters – Madison, Wisconsin

The purpose of the one-day Summit was to address the ongoing concerns that the parents, students, schools and community are wrestling with today. Those concerns are attrition rates, academic achievement, social and personal responsibilities, suspension, and incarceration rates of our youth.

It is our belief that if we wait for others to address our youth and their issues, the outcome will be what we see now: low self-esteem, lack of goals and dreams, and poor academic motivation, thus creating frustration, which leads to aggressive behaviors that ultimately end up with incarceration or death (both physical as well as psychological).

8 December 2011

The Edgewater Hotel – Madison, Wisconsin

At this event, 1,243 toys were collected for distribution to needy area youth. In lieu of admission fees, attendees were asked to bring an unwrapped gift worth $15 or more to donate. In addition, a Corporate Challenge was fused into this year's activity. The first-place winner was the Wisconsin National Guard and second place went to the employees of the Hilton Madison Monona Terrace.
